Profile:

I am a committed and creative individual with skills in illustration, both digital and traditional.

I have an eye for detail, taking inspiration from fairy tales and history but with a contemporary flare, fresh for the audience's eye. I am well organised, with excellent time management skills and planning. I am eager to learn and take on feedback and expand my pre-existing skills in illustration.

Outside of work, I have an interest in Tudor history and explore historical sites and art galleries. I love to read and spend time in nature.

Work experience:

CAHMS, 2024

Project leader and art director

Included time planning and leadership skills, as well as communicating with my group effectively. I illustrated alongside my team, and we had to listen, adapt, and problem solve after the feedback to create a successful product.

Hullabaloo, 2024

Experience at selling work and interacting with customers.

Volunteer for Cancer Research UK, Herne Bay

August 2023 - October 2023

Included maintaining the shop floor and creating effective shop displays. I also have experience on running the till, staff teamwork and communication.

Seadogbooks commission, 2023

I got commissioned to create further illustrations for an event called Summer's End, which are featured on the Seadog Books website and printed for the event.

Seadogbooks, 2023

Art director

I presided over stylistic choices and consistency within the group and interpreted what the client needed from us. This means that I had to have effective communication and problem solving.
